

You too can make cool GOZR shit!
Give it or sell it as you see fit.
Just follow these rules
Don't act a fool
And treat folks with respect.

1. You may not copy any page of GOZR for any purpose (other than use at your table), whole or in part, without my permission.
2. The text of GOZR is not to be copied without my permission, but you may reference rules and creatures and spells and such, even stating page numbers or spell numbers if you like. For example, you may create an adventure in which a wizard casts the spell Devil Horns. You can refer to the spell number (Devil Horns is number 20 on the d100 list) and you can refer to the page of GOZR on which it appears (page 34).
3. Hack the rules all you like.
4. If you want to declare your work to be compatible with GOZR and use the GOZR compatibility logo, feel free to do so as long as you adhere to the conditions outlined in this license. You do not have to include the compatibility logo but you do have to include the following text:

"[your product name] is an independent work by [your name or whatever] and is not associated with J. V. West or Random Order Creations. GOZR is copyright J. V. West."
5. Neither J. V. West nor Random Order Creations takes any responsibility for legal claims against your product nor will they defend your honor if you act a fool.

